In the name of humanity, we thank the noble man, for his advice to the aged couple. He has proved himself a worthy sionary, of truth and liberty. It is out of such elements of mind and heart. sa he possesses, that God Almighty makes the beroes to resist the aggressions of tyrants, and to unmask hypocrites and deceivers. We trust his example will be followed by others, and that Brother Brigham's wheat bins will not le eafter be much increased by the offerings of the poor and needy.

if aged couple had taken their wheat to the tithing office, and bad chanced to meet some of those saintly men, the lordly prophets, the proprietors of whisty saloons, they would no doubt sanctimonious bisming, but it would not counsel given them was good sense, sound philosophy, commendable ethics. If we were cold and ragged, but had a few bushels of wheat, we would keep away from the tithing office,-the prophets we would visit, would be the merchants, who could supply our pressing necessities, -we would not give their comfortable clothes and good shoes in exchange for all the blessings the prophets could pile upon us from now until the day of doom-even if Brother Kimball's old cloak-which is claimed to possess great curative properties,-were thrown in to increase the blessings. In such matters, the reason that God gave us should be our guide. As we view it, neither the blessings nor curses of the Utah prophets are of very much worth. One thing is certain, they will never hinder distelligent men from providing for themselves and their families.

Their aged limbs would have been as covered with rags and as chilled as before. The tacks upon the Senstors, makes that affair dwindle down to a very small compass. The O'Mahonyites asserted that it was through those letters that the British Government got hold of the Feuian operators in Ireland, and insinguated pretty strongly that, instead of being "lost," they were sold to the British officials. Mr. Mechan affirms that those letters contained no other names than his own contained no other names than his own and those of his co-commissioner and Mr.

Finally, the Senate after endeavoring to pump him in vain, the presiding officer de-clared—"The witness, having declined to answer, stands in contempt of the or-der of the Senate. What is the pleasure of the Senate?" The Senate thought it best to send him to jail, there to be confined until he should purge himself of contempt by answering the questions propounded him. He presented to argue that rebellions States, were to be dealt with precisely as exigencies in the case demanded. He said it had been asserted that States could not commit treason, he denied this, and maintained that states could, by the action of a majority of the people subject themselves to the penalty of death. He believed that absolute impartially was the only safety and, though it had been claimed that universal suffrage would induce a war of races, he would advocate universal suffrage as a means of national defense. He would oppose the admission of Southern Senators and Reprepentatives, until they come in the person of loyal men, representing loyal constituents, which they do not now do.

Stewart proceeded to address the Senate he said He did not believe the resolution was very important in itself or at any other time than this, but in the present case it perturbed a condition of public mind, it was of great importance, considering the breach between the Pres ident and Congress. He proceeded to discuss the President's policy, and advo-ented it, he said that since delatory resoutions had been agreed upon, speeches might as well be made on this resolution as an other. He said the war had been waged to preserve the integrity of the Union. He had campaigned on that issue against the Copperheads, and did not propose to "chaw" his words now.

Washington, Feb. 28. The House resumed consideration of Mr. Bingham's proposed Constitutional amoudment. Rogers rose to a personal explanation, saying that he did not endorse Seward's New York speech, but it was Raymond's speech he endorsed, he had not yet forgotten Seward's little bill, and should be ashamed to endorse him or his speech. Bingham proceeded to address the Home, after which further consideration was postponed until the second Tuesday in April.

Tur Atchison Champion gives the following regarding the Freedmen's Burean Bill, the veto of which is exciting so much commotion in public circles :

The bilt, as floatly passed, provides that its operation can be extended to all parts of the Seates. Under it the President is authorized to reserve from the sale or settlement under the homestead and pre-emption laws, and to set apart for the use of freedmen and loyal refu gees, male or, female, unoccupied lands in Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and Arkansas, not exceeding 3,000,-40 acres are given to each freedman or refugee. The latter is to pay such an nual rent for said land as may be agreedon. With regard to the South Carolina cotton lands, the bill provides that Gen. Sherman's order giving freedmen these lands shall be confirmed for three years from January, 16, 1865. MURDER NEAR HORNITOS .- The Maripose Gazette of February 17th gives the following account of a late murder in its

On Thursday night of last week, Me-Manue, an old miner who lived pear Hornitos, had been into town, and had occasion to exchange some gold dust for coin, which was evidently observed by a Mexican. Late in the evening he started for home, and the following morning his remains were discovered about a mile and a half from town on the road leading to his cabin. The tracks near by indicated that he had been stopped by men on horses, and fired at. as the distance between his steps was considerable. He was shot in the left hip, from behind. This disabled him, when his assassine put a bullet under the left ear, and to make sure work then inflicted many stabs upon his body. His cabin was broken open and searched, the parties thinking he had money, and failing to find it there killed him, believing he had it about his person. Some leather overalls, found near the body of McManus, were siniliar in appearance to those worn by a Mexican the day before the murder, and it is general believed that the murderers

San Francisco, Feb. 23. The Executive Committee of the Unon State Central Committee held a meeting last night. The following resolutions

Resolved. That the present is a crisis in the closing of the war for the Union in which it becomes all Union men to adhere firmly by the principles which have guided them through four years of rebellion, and to act with the greatest prudence, discretion and deliberation, and not be unwarily entrapped into any ac-tion or expression which shall serve to commit them to any co-operation with that party which for the last four years has sympathized with the rebellion.

The second resolution says that they do not perceive an irreparable breach between the President and Congress, and says the duty of all Union men is to avoid entanglement with Copperheads by assisting at meetings and endorsing

The third resolution says, when the Vallandighams and Horatio Seymours at the East, and the California Copperheads, who sent their sons to the rebel army, unite in endorsing the policy of a President they hitherto utterly opposed, it is apparent they do not fully understand his policy, and are endeavoring to seduce him from his allegiance to the Constitution. Resolved, That the abolition of slavery in the States is one of the results of the late rebellion, and that it would be a most wicked, senseless and cowardly protection from the 4,000,000 freemen, and permit them to be reduced again to Slavery under State laws enacted by men whose hands are red with the blood of

Resolved, That we believe that President Johnson will remain true to the Constitution and his pledges, and that he will not suffer himself to be betrayed by the attempted seductions of men who were lately in arms against the Union, or by those who in act and declared sentiment sympathized with the rebellion. FIRE IN STOCKTON .- We learn from the Stockton Independent, of Feb. 18th, that a fire occurred in that place on the 17th ult, which destroyed a wagon-shop and contents, belonging to Mr. Rudolph Shultz.
